

The Centre region, where land and water meet

Just a couple of steps from Paris, the Centre region has always been a place of retreat, far from the bustle of the capital. In this region of subtleties and contrasts, the proud outlines of the chateaux of the Loire and the majestic cathedrals of Chartres and Bourges reach up amid landscapes of discreet and rural charm.

Then, following in the footsteps of Georges Sand, the visitor will reach the secret countryside of the Berry, and the centuries-old oak forests and deep gorges of the Creuse and Indre rivers.

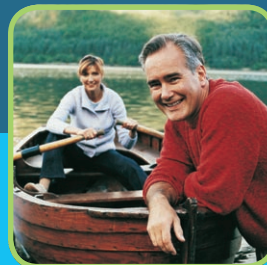

Herry, at the gateway to Bourges

The rich and varied landscapes of the Pays de Bourges take you through farm land to forests and from orchard covered hills down into the valleys. From one atmosphere to another... from one world to another! Less than 2h from Paris, this dynamic village is a perfect place to relax in calm surroundings. At the gateway to Nièvre, near Nevers and the Morvan, Herry opens out onto the Loire and its châteaux.

Coeur de vie residences

Les Hameaux de Herry are real havens of tranquility. In the heart of the countryside, all of this housing offers to each of the residents an adapted living space, entirely closed and secure. Laid out around a tree-lined walkway crossing les Hameaux, each of the houses has its own individual terrace and private garden.
